2021-08 – Present Survey Researcher
Grey Finch Social Research

- Reviewed 840 survey responses across a six-week study of library access. Reported mode and age-group coverage alongside the headline results.
- Led cognitive interviews with 12 participants. Revised wording that people read as a question about eligibility instead of frequency.
- Monitored the response rate by invitation batch and survey mode. Added telephone appointments where online participation was low.
- Tested weighted and unweighted tables. Flagged groups with too few responses for a reliable comparison.

- Maintained a coding guide for open responses and compared decisions with a second coder before release.
- Reconciled interview schedules with the contact log and recorded when a participant declined further contact.
